10:19 PM me: yo Andrew: behold
http://www.fusedcreations.com/adam/colrap_render_013.jpg me: I'm serving as an advisor on this congressional campaign in Virginia Andrew: the atheist?
10:20 PM me: yeah, but now I'm trying to make him "the redditor" Andrew: yeah, good choice me: just forwarded you the details I'm talking to the candidate as well as the campaign manager by phone tomorrow 10:21 PM am advising he take strong stance in favor of net neutrality and do a Q-and-A at reddit soon and promise to have his staff monitor reddit for good policy idead ideas perhaps set up his own subreddit for the purpose of submitting same 10:22 PM Andrew: good ideas me: meanwhile this can be used to forge a storyline of the sort that will give him national recognition with a week Andrew: yeah
how is that part going to work?
me: I wrote a piece on him today at Daily Kos and other outlets; go look at the atheist subreddit 10:23 PM through my skills and media contacts
it's pretty easy Andrew: i mean what are you going to tell redditors to do? me: nothing
Andrew: since the majority of them arent viriginian me: donate money volunteer to phone bank 10:24 PM you must be new to the U.S. let me know if you have any other questions about our strange native customs like I probably mentioned, the poor guy was relying on Enlighten the Vote and Ellen Johnson to bring in some cash 10:25 PM I think they got like $600 and this is a race in which $50 can buy a 30-second radio ad

10:26 PM so meanwhile I've sent out an e-mail explaining the importance of the race and requesting donations to Robert Green, my producer out in California who's going to send it to all of his rich and Democratic HOLLWEIRD LIBERAL SECULARISTS all that needs to be raised from all of this is a couple of thousand bucks to make a measurable impact

10:27 PM anyway, let me know if you have any suggestions
